Fire damages New Madrid County Jail, juvenile prisoner escapes

NEW MADRID - An early morning fire today damaged the New Madrid County Jail, 636 Powell St., and forced the evacuation of 14 prisoners being held in the two-story structure.

Fire Chief H. H. "Bud" Townsend Jr. said the fire department was called about 2 a.m. today to the jail, located one block north of the courthouse.

The blaze, believed by Townsend to have been deliberately set in the second floor attic by a prisoner, was contained in about an hour. Firemen remained at the scene fighting hotspots until about 8 a.m. today.

Firemen have been called to the jail on three previous occasions to extinguish fires believed to have been set.

New Madrid County Sheriff Walter Ivy said today 14 prisoners, held on charges ranging from peace disturbance to murder, were evacuated from the burning facility.

A 16-year-old New Madrid Juvenile fled the scene and had not been located this morning.

Ten of the prisoners were taken to Pemiscot County Jail in Caruthersville and three were placed in the city jail, pending court appearances this morning.

Townsend and Ivy commended the fire department for their efforts in containing the blaze quickly and preventing further damage. The roof and second floor ceiling were burned with debris falling through to the second floor.

Townsend said two pumper units were used to control the fire and the Lillbourn fire department was called to the scene as a standby measure.

No injuries were reported.

Spending measure back to committee

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - A $145 million building bill with money for a new state prison and other major building and renovation projects throughout Missouri will be back in the hands of the House of Representatives today.

The House and Senate were scheduled to be back in special session late this afternoon to try to finish work on the huge spending measure.

Legislative leaders had hoped to wind up the special session by Tuesday.

Although there are differences between the version of the building bill approved by the House and Senate last week, both chambers have endorsed the prison compromise sections of the measure.

The bill was expected to end up in a House and Senate conference committee where the lawmakers from both bodies will try to iron out their differences.

Still, the prison issue, which brought the deadlock between the House and Senate during the regular session, and that eventually led to this summer's special session, has moved successfully through both legislative bodies.

As it stands now $37 million has been earmarked for prison construction and renovations, with the main item being $25 million for a new maximum security prison in either the St. Louis area or Washington County.

A couple of amendments to include St. Charles County in the consideration for the site of the new medium security prison were turned down by the Senate when it took final action on the bill last Thursday.

Another amendment to exclude the Chesterfield-Gumbo area of St. Louis County as a possible location also was easily defeated by the senators.

So, The St. Louis County, St. Louis and Washington County remain the three areas under consideration for the new facility, which is the same as the compromise settlement worked out last month by Gov. Joseph Teasdale and the legislature leadership.

In addition to the new medium security prison, the bill also calls for $11.7 million in construction funds for several other correctional buildings along with other renovations, like addition maximum security units at the main penitentiary in Jefferson City.

Despite the amount of debate on the prison issue, the appropriation for the new correctional facilities make up less than half of the total amount of spending contained in the multi-million building bill.

As approved by the Senate, the measure calls for spending about $145 million, as opposed to the $142 million okayed by the House last Tuesday.

More than half of the money the state will spend to pay for the more than $140 million in Missouri building projects called for in the bill will come from the federal government.

For example, the $37.45 million for the new prison work will be paid for with $18.81 million in federal revenue sharing money and $18.64 million in state general funds.

The legislature has traditionally relied on federal revenue sharing money for much of its major building program and some lawmakers have questioned the use of almost $20 million in general state revenue for the capital improvements bill.

In action last week, the Senate added back another $2.58 million for a multipurpose building at the State School and

4 injured in SeMo area accidents

Four persons received minor injuries in three area traffic accidents Saturday and Sunday, the highway patrol said today.

Two persons received minor injuries in a three-vehicle accident at 8:20 p.m. Saturday on Highway 67, one mile south of Poplar Bluff.

The accident occurred when a northbound pickup truck driven by William James Gilliland, 73, of Poplar Bluff struck the rear of a northbound car driven by David Wayne Wicks, 21, of Harviell. The Gilliland truck then crossed the center line and struck head-on a southbound car driven by Clifford Earl Asher III, 17, of Neelyville.

Gilliland and Asher were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff with minor injuries.

Gilliland was also cited for following too closely.

One person received minor injuries in a one-vehicle accident at 2:55 p.m. Sunday on Route UU, 5.5 miles west of Bernie.

The accident occurred when an eastbound pickup truck driven by Pamela J. Stratton, 19, of Brosley ran off the road, struck a culvert and overturned.

The driver received minor injuries and was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital at Poplar Bluff. One person received minor injuries in a one car accident at 4:30 p.m. Sunday on Route A, 1.5 miles east of Chaffee.

The accident occurred when an eastbound car driven by James Joseph Bucher, 17, of Chaffee went out of control at a high rate of speed, skidded 405 feet and struck an embankment.

A passenger, Steven R. Keller, 17, of Chaffee, was taken to St. Francis Hospital at Cape with minor injuries.

Bucher was charged with careless and imprudent driving.

Police probe break-in EAST PRAIRIE - Police are investigating a break-in believed to have occurred sometime between midnight Saturday and 3 a.m. Sunday at the Gerald B. Thomas Service Station on South Main St.

Police officer Bill Aycock said entry was gained by prying off a front door lock after an unsuccessful attempt was made at a window on the north side of the building.

About $40 in change from a pinball machine, cigarette lighters and lighter fluid were taken from inside the station.

Aycock said a pickup truck parked at the rear of the station was also taken, but was returned later after about a half tank of gasoline was either used or taken. A citizens band radio in the truck was also stolen.

Investigating officers were Aycock and Kenneth Belvin.

3 C'ville jail escapees caught

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Three men, each charged with murder or attempted murder in different cases, escaped from the Pemiscot County jail Sunday night, but have been captured and returned to the jail, the Pemiscot County Sheriff's Department said today.

The escape occurred about 5:22 p.m. Sunday when Allen Brogden, 20, of Hayti and Steven Oatsvall, 20, of Caruthersville took a mop handle and a rag rope and released a lock on a maximum security cell.

A trustee, Milan Hasting, was upstairs feeding the prisoners at the time. The two overpowered the trustee and put him in the cell.

The two took an elevator down to a back room of the building.

George Moody, a deputy sheriff and dispatcher, went back to the dining area to the soft drink machine.

Oatsvall was hiding behind a door in the room and Brogden was hiding behind a short wall, where they could not be seen.

The two jumped Moody and Brogden hit the deputy in the head with his fists. Oatsall got the jail keys from the deputy and let a third prisoner, Roger Dale Jackson, 18, of Bragg City, out of his cell upstairs.

The cell that Jackson was held in is called "the bullpen" and held seven other prisoners, none of whom escaped.

"Nobody else wanted out," a sheriff's department spokesman said this morning.

During this time, Brogden was holding Moody in the dining area in the back room, threatening the deputy with a rolling pin the prisoner had found in the kitchen area.

Vance opens Red Chinese talks

PEKING (AP) - Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, here to explore chances of establishing full diplomatic relations with China, opened talks with Chinese leaders today by emphasizing the two countries' common political interests in various parts of the world.

In a sitting room in the Great Hall of the People, Vance began his first meeting with a Chinese team headed by Foreign Minister Huang Hua by saying there are areas where the two countries have "mutual interests."

One of these areas is Africa, where both the United States and China are eager to blunt Soviet penetration. They are concerned about inroads the Russians are making in east Africa and with insurgent movements in southern Africa.

American officials said the "international discussion," as Vance called it, was aimed at persuading Peking that a closer relationship can be built with Washington on the basis of shared objectives.

This phase of the talks is likely to occupy the first two days of Vance's four-day visit to the Chinese capital, serving as a buildup to the dominant subject - a mutual desire to move toward full relations.

Outside the Great Hall, and along the Avenue of Tranquility, in Tien An Men Square and elsewhere, tens of thousands of Chinese marched behind banners proclaiming the completion of the 11th Communist party congress.

The celebration bore no relationship to Vance's visit. The congress formally selected Hua Kuo-feng as party chairman, thereby ratifying his policies of economic advancement and greater openness toward the outside world.

Vance's arrival was low-keyed, with Huang Hua, Vice Foreign Minister Wang Hai-jung and Huang Chen, chief of the Chinese Liaison Office in Washington, heading a modest welcoming delegation at the airport.

But the festive atmosphere, with clanging cymbals and exploding firecrackers that had children covering their ears, lent a special dimension to this first high-level U.S.-Chinese contact in two years.

Chairman Hua had signaled Vance beforehand that Chinese policy has not changed on the Taiwan question, and that the United States would have to end all diplomatic and military ties with the Nationalist Chinese if it hopes to establish full relations with Peking.

Hua's demand was contained in a speech closing the party congress last Thursday and made public by Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, as Vance flew from Tokyo to the Chinese capital.

Beer, tape players stolen

Burglars took beer and tape players in separate thefts over the weekend, according to the Public Safety Department.

Ten cases of beer worth $59 were taken from the rear warehouse at Bess Distributing Co., 810 S. Main St., between 6 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Saturday.

Entrance to the warehouse was gained through a window.

Oscar Kent, 307 Westgate St., reported that an eight track player worth $25 and a cassette tape player worth $15 were taken from his car between 3 p.m. and 10 p.m. Sunday.

The car was parked at his home when the theft occurred.

Officers said someone entered the City Light and Water Office 138 N. Prairie St., Wednesday night or Thursday morning and took $26 in change.

The burglars entered through a bathroom window.

FAIR PLAY IN PANAMA

After bloody riots in the Canal Zone that left 25 dead in 1964 and after tortuous negotiations since then, the United States and Panama at last have agreed "in principle" on the future of the Panama Canal.

In a historic and sensible step toward decolonialism, the Carter administration wishes to yield control over the waterway and the 533-square-mile Canal Zone to Panama in the year 2000.

The negotiators no doubt feel they have accomplished a difficult feat, but the hardest part lies ahead: to convince the required 67 U. S. senators that it is in the national interest to ratify a new canal treaty.

While a word-by-word treaty hasn't yet been written, the outlined agreement seems fair to both sides.

The Panamanians made major concessions: letting the Americans run the canal for 23 more years; accepting a U. S. military presence until 2000; agreeing that U. S. forces could return after that date to defend the canal, and scaling down their annual rental demands to $50 million, which can be covered by canal tolls.

Unfortunately the canal issue is an emotional one in this country and a violent debate can be expected. Ronald Reagan and other conservatives are fond of declaiming, "We bought it, we paid for it, we built it and we ought to keep it."

In fact, "we built it" is about the only accurate part of the statement. We didn't buy it; Teddy Roosevelt used to admit proudly that he "took" the Canal Zone and all but blackmailed Panama into ratifying the one-sided 1903 treaty giving the United States rights there "in perpetuity."

However, it's pointless to argue about ancient history. What this country got away with in an era of imperialism is not what it should practice today. It makes more sense to argue about the canal's value, which is much exaggerated by its admirers.

Diplomatically it is a handicap. It is seen throughout Latin America as proof of "Yankee imperialism" and thus harms the nation's interests in the hemisphere.

Strategically it is obsolete. Big aircraft carriers, large naval vessels and modern tankers cannot fit through it. That is why this country built a two-ocean Navy. Also, the canal is indefensible; in wartime one Soviet submarine could close it with one nuclear missile.

Economically the canal is overrated. It now carries only two per cent of this country's coast-to-coast trade. And by the year 2000 its military and economic value will be less than today's.

Americans ought to try to look at the canal through Panamanian eyes. It was stolen from them. It is an open wound dividing their country, diminishing their nationhood. It is their main natural resource - held by foreigners.

There are only 1.7 million Panamanians but they are united in their determination to regain the Canal Zone. If the Senate succumbs to demagoguery and jingoism and defeats the treaty, one can expect guerrilla warfare and sabotage of the canal.

In their struggle the Panamanians will have the backing of all Latin America. Should this country risk a nasty little tropical Vietnam over a waterway that isn't worth much anymore?

SECRET INGREDIENTS

Good ol' Bert Lance and his Office of Management and Budget. OMBers, it turns out, not only keep a wary eye on federal spending, but they also brood about the welfare of consumers of whisky, beer and wine.

So the OMB fired off a letter to two other government agencies telling them to get together soon on a requirement that all the ingredients of alcoholic beverages be listed on their labels.

Like anything to do with booze in this country, the idea has a tortuous past. Back in 1975 the Food and Drug Administration decided that consumers had the right to know what was in liquor and wine and proposed informative labels.

Eight distilleries filed suit in federal court in Louisville, Ky., (how could they lose there?) and the court told the FDA to mind its business and leave the matter to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Since BATF rarely does anything the industry dislikes, the matter stalled. Now OMB, wielding the clout of President Carter's friend Bert, wants consumers "made aware of hidden and potentially harmful ingredients" in their tipples, and action is likely to follow.

Frankly we are no authority on liquor or labels, but we have a pretty strong hunch: if whisky and wine makers don't want to detail what is in their products, there is something in there consumers wouldn't like to read about. And if the makers have to list ingredients, they'll have a way of removing whatever it is that purchasers object to.

So good luck to OMB in its effort at truth-in-whisky labeling. If full disclosure is good enough for politicians and judges and other things that are bad for your health, why should yon half-gallon be exempt?

In National Geographic News Across the land, the day of the deli has dawned. Today the delicatessen is crowding in on the territory of the fast-food franchise, where the cheeseburger with

Nobody knows how many delis there are in the United States, except that there are never enough for the wandering lover of hot pastrami, garlic bagels, chopped chicken livers, Polish salami, kosher dills, cheesecake, pickled herring, potato salad, lox, cream cheese and Russian dressing.

The heartburn of nostalgia for good delicatessens may be increasingly harder to work up as these unique eateries multiply around the country, sometimes with such regional additions to the ethnic fare as Georgia grits, Texas chili and California egg rolls. One man's downtown delicatessen may be another's mere cold cuts counter in the suburban supermarket. MUDDYING THE
CLEAN-WATER LAW
From The

New York Times

The Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 was a major turning point in the long struggle to clean up the nation's rivers and protect its water resources. For the first time, Congress adequately responded to two grim facts: Every major river system in America is seriously polluted, and the nation's ponds, marshes and other wetlands have been systematically diminished to a dangerous extent. As a result of recent actions by the House of Representatives, the act is now in jeopardy.

The law set the bold goal of "zero discharge" of pollutants into the nation's rivers by 1985. It created a licensing system for the Army Corps of Engineers to control dumping into any stream, river or wetland.

Previously, under an 1899 law, the Army Engineers regulated only streams and rivers used in interstate commerce.

XXX
The extension of federal protection to small streams and to wetlands was of critical importance. Wetlands are nature's breeding grounds and also its backup system where water from storms and floods is absorbed, fish are spawned, and birds pass part of their life cycle. Dumping, particularly of materials containing heavy metals or toxic pesticides, has had a disastrous effect.

Last year, the House passed legislation that would have virtually repealed the law as far as regulating wetlands and small streams was concerned. That attempt died in a House-Senate conference, but this year the House has again passed a bill that would substantially weaken the licensing authority.

The bill as passed by the House contains other dubious amendments; they pose complex questions that the Senate Public Works Committee wants to study in hearings later this spring. This cautious approach is also favored by the Carter Administration. Unfortunately, in a n effort to preempt the contest, the House attached its amendments to the President's 4-billion-dollar emergency public works bill, which must be dealt with promptly.

The Senate and the Administration may yet conclude that clarifying language is necessary to exempt normal activities in farming, ranching and forestry that have only minor environmental impact on rivers and wetlands. But the House amendments go well beyond any such necessary clarification. The nation's water resources are too scarce and precious to allow a return to the reckless practices of the past.

Strike-Made Blackouts?
Mysterious Bands leading Coal Wildcaters' walkouts threaten nation's winter fuel supply

WASHINGTON— Fear is stranger than fiction. We're in the midst of a weird Kafka-like miners' revolt in the nation's most vital coal fields.

Few in official circles, these summery days, appear to be disturbed. Fewer are watching or monitoring. Yet almost half the nation's pits early this week were shut by wildcaters. Tough coal diggers didn't hide their fright.

A few hands full of expertly organized cadres and caucuses - many of their leaders oratorically, culturally and organizationally, obviously university men - have whipped strike fever to such rebellion that 80,000 men have been idle. Their union contract means nothing. Their national leaders even less.

The neo-radical "proletarian culture" of the rebel movement was obvious in skillfully written leaflets and expertly wielded rifles and shotguns.

Rarely have physical and psychological weapons been so agilely handled including the manipulation of raw fear. One recent morning some officers of the United Mine Workers (UMW) District 17, Charleston, W. Va., were forcibly ejected by outlaw strikers now battling the national office's efforts to get the men back to work.

Later, pickets attempted to close other union offices. Still later the leader of UMW District 6 in Ohio was phoned at home and warned not to open his headquarters.

Caravans raced from West Virginia into nearby states. Miners in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois were warned to stay out of the pits. Few appear to know just who, or what, is motivating a pro-strike "movement."

One West Virginia legislator says the provocateurs are young neo-radicals from the Universities of California and Michigan. The old spirits now pivoting on 30 years of age - of the right-to-strike group are still agitating, still orating, still renouncing the national UMW leaders, and denouncing the government and the coal mine owners.

Familiar faces of Chicago's "Revolutionary Union" (the RU) are whirling around.

Scores of thousands of coal diggers have been striking for more than two months - just as they hit the bricks last summer and the summer previous. Some 18 million tons of coal have been lost in recent months. The UMW retirement and health funds are losing $1 million daily in royalties.

Word is that the pension trust may not be able to mail its checks. Possibly no cash to cover.

The coal diggers' prized health cards are worth half what they were a year ago because of the slash in benefits. Hospitals and clinics may close.

Such information will be useful to the average cook only if the recipe being used also is written in metri measures. If the USDA is interested in getting into metrics, and it should be since Congress passed the Metric Conversion Act of 1975, it needs to write its own recipes in that new measurement, too.

Yet the same news release that brought the announcement of the inquiries going out on metric meat labeling carried with it a whole sheet of USDA recipes for using milk—and all of them still referred to "cups" and "one can (6 oz.)" and "two 12-ounce serving."

LIMITED BRITISH
ROLE IN RHODESIA
From The Financial Times, London

From Africa, Britain may still seem a powerful country. The fact is that the UK is in no position financially or militarily to send troops to Rhodesia which would be required to lend credibility to a political guarantee, and Britain cannot therefore undertake responsibility for ensuring that both sides carry out whatever bargain had been agreed in Geneva. This is the more true in that there is no certainty that any agreement in Geneva would be followed by an end to the guerrilla campaign. If at the end of a successful negotiation at Geneva the whites and the blacks were to agree that they wanted an individual Briton to act as moderator during the interim period, then this is something which the UK could well consider. But in no circumstances should Britain accept government responsibility for the transition to independence.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Interior Aids Hunters

by Jack Anderson
and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The big game hunters who are slaughtering endangered animals may have found an ally at the Interior Dept.

The hunters are taking careful aim at the list of endangered species, which protects such rapidly vanishing animals as the leopard, zebra, antelope, quail and Mexican duck. If the hunters water down the safeguards, they will be able to kill and import greater numbers of the imperiled animals. Should restrictions be lifted, for example, the sleek leopard may soon be seen nowhere except in the windows of chic fur salons.

Until recently, the United States has been leading the fight against wholesale slaughter of endangered animals. But that policy has now been jeopardized by the Interior Dept.'s top official in charge of protecting wildlife.

He is the pipe-smoking, personable Robert Herbst, who has quietly caved in to the demands of the hunting lobby. He will permit a hunter to be one of two private U.S. representatives to an international conference which will decide whether many endangered species will survive. That decision, turned one environmentalist, "is like sending a member of the Ku Klux Klan to an international conference on human rights to provide 'balance' to the delegation."

Herbst insists, however, that the hunters should have a vote at the convention. They represent a certain element of the conservation community that has a right to be heard," he told us. "I just saw it as a fair thing to do."

Herbst made up his mind after huddling privately with three officials of Safari Clubs International. Even though the hunters fiercely oppose U.S. policy on endangered species, Herbst permitted the Safari officials to choose one of their own to attend the conference. Growled one Interior official: "Everybody found out about it after the fact."

During Herbst's recent tenure as Minnesota's top environmental official, the Interior Dept. formally threatened to take him to court for allegedly authorizing the slaughter of endangered timber wolves. Herbst maintained the regulations were confusing.

We have discovered that Herbst misled the Senate when he testified at his confirmation hearings that he tried to change the wolf's status from "endangered" to "threatened." We have obtained a letter in which Herbst requested that Minnesota wolves be removed from all federal protection.

The hunters, however, were so impressed with Herbst's previous performance that they enthusiastically supported him at his Senate confirmation hearings.

Likely Choice: Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., a onetime choir director and organizer who now chairs the House International Relations Committee, is not exactly shy about tooting his own horn.

Recently, for example, Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill asked a number of House chairmen for nominees to serve on the new committee on intelligence. Five respected congressmen on the International Relations Committee vied for the opportunity. Zablocki carefully surveyed the available talent and decided on an even better choice - himself.

Zablocki told us he had asked for and received the speaker's permission before selecting himself. He has developed expertise in the intelligence field, he added.

O'Neill was reportedly miffed at the plodding but amiable Zablocki for picking himself. A spokesman for O'Neill officially denied this.

This isn't the first time the Milwaukee congressman has promoted his own candidacy. Last February, Zablocki raised a ruckus when someone else was chosen as chairman of the House delegation to the North Atlantic Assembly.

"I feel as chairman of the committee I should be chairman of the delegation," he whined to O'Neill. The speaker scolded Zablocki and the congressman threatened to pick up his marbles and go home.

Zablocki later changed his mind about quitting the delegation. But he's now learned the rules well enough to make sure he's chosen for the important games.

FAIR PLAY IN PANAMA

After bloody riots in the Canal Zone that left 25 dead in 1964 and after tortuous negotiations since then, the United States and Panama at last have agreed "in principle" on the future of the Panama Canal.

In a historic and sensible step toward decolonialism, the Carter administration wishes to yield control over the waterway and the 533-square-mile Canal Zone to Panama in the year 2000.

The negotiators no doubt feel they have accomplished a difficult feat, but the hardest part lies ahead: to convince the required 67 U. S. senators that it is in the national interest to ratify a new canal treaty.

While a word-by-word treaty hasn't yet been written, the outlined agreement seems fair to both sides.

The Panamanians made major concessions: letting the Americans run the canal for 23 more years; accepting a U. S. military presence until 2000; agreeing that U. S. forces could return after that date to defend the canal, and scaling down their annual rental demands to $50 million, which can be covered by canal tolls.

Unfortunately the canal issue is an emotional one in this country and a violent debate can be expected. Ronald Reagan and other conservatives are fond of declaiming, "We bought it, we paid for it, we built it and we ought to keep it."

In fact, "we built it" is about the only accurate part of the statement. We didn't buy it; Teddy Roosevelt used to admit proudly that he "took" the Canal Zone and all but blackmailed Panama into ratifying the one-sided 1903 treaty giving the United States rights there "in perpetuity."

However, it's pointless to argue about ancient history. What this country got away with in an era of imperialism is not what it should practice today. It makes much sense to argue about the canal's value, which is much exaggerated by its admirers.

Diplomatically it is a handicap. It is seen throughout Latin America as proof of "Yankee imperialism" and thus harms the nation's interests in the hemisphere.

Strategically it is obsolete. Big aircraft carriers, large naval vessels and modern tankers cannot fit through it. That is why this country built a two-ocean Navy. Also, the canal is indefensible; in wartime one Soviet submarine could close it with one nuclear missile.

Economically the canal is overrated. It now carries only two per cent of this country's coast-to-coast trade. And by the year 2000 its military and economic value will be less than today's.

Americans ought to try to look at the canal through Panamanian eyes. It was stolen from them. It is an open wound dividing their country, diminishing their nationhood. It is their main natural resource - held by foreigners.

There are only 1.7 million Panamanians but they are united in their determination to regain the Canal Zone. If the Senate succumbs to demagoguery and jingoism and defeats the treaty, one can expect guerrilla warfare and sabotage of the canal.

In their struggle the Panamanians will have the backing of all Latin America. Should this country risk a nasty little tropical Vietnam over a waterway that isn't worth much anymore?

birds pass part of their life cycle. Dumping, particularly of materials containing heavy metals or toxic pesticides, has had a disastrous effect.

Last year, the House passed legislation that would have virtually repealed the law as far as regulating wetlands and small streams was concerned. That attempt died in a House-Senate conference, but this year the House has again passed a bill that would substantially weaken the licensing authority.

The bill as passed by the House contains other dubious amendments; they pose complex questions that the Senate Public Works Committee wants to restudy in hearings later this spring. This cautious approach is also favored by the Carter Administration. Unfortunately, in a effort to preempt the contest, the House attached its amendments to the President's 4-billion-dollar emergency public works bill, which must be dealt with promptly.

The Senate and the Administration may yet conclude that clarifying language is necessary to exempt normal activities in farming, ranching and forestry that have only minor environmental impact on rivers and wetlands. But the House amendments go well beyond any such necessary clarification. The nation's water resources are too scarce and precious to allow a return to the reckless practices of the past.

METRIC MEATS

Consumers are being asked by the U.S. Department of Agriculture if they would like to see the meat packages displayed in supermarkets marked in metric as well as the present avoirdupois measures.
That is, in kilograms and grams
as well as in pounds and ounces.

We suspect that except for those who must measure in metric terms for medical reasons, housewives could not care less whether a package of hamburger beef is marked in metric terms.

Strike-Made Bankouts?
Mysterious Bands Leading Coal Wildcaters' walkouts threaten nation's winter fuel supply

WASHINGTON—Fear is stranger than fiction. We're in the midst of a weird Kafka-like miners' revolt in the nation's most vital coalfields.

Few in official circles, these summer days, appear to be disturbed. Fewer are watching or monitoring. Yet almost half the nation's pits early this week were shut by wildcaters. Tough coalriggers didn't hide their fright.

A few hands full of expertly organized cadres and caucuses - many of their leaders oratorically, culturally and organizationally, obviously university men - have whipped strike fever to such rebellion that 80,000 men have been idle.
Their union contract means nothing. Their national leaders even less.

The neo-radical "proletarian culture" of the rebel movement was obvious in skillfully written leaflets and expertly wielded rifles and shotguns.

Rarely have physical and psychological weapons been so agilely handled including the manipulation of raw fear. One recent morning some officers of the United Mine Workers (UMW) District 17, Charleston, W. Va., were forcibly ejected by outlaw strikers now battling the national office's efforts to get the men back to work.

Later, pickets attempted to close other union offices. Still later the leader of UMW District 6 in Ohio was phoned at home and warned not to open his headquarters.

Caravans raced from West
Virginia into nearby states.
Miners in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois were warned to stay out of the pits. Few appear to know just who, or what, is motivating a pro-strike
"movement."

One West Virginia legislator says the provocateurs are young neo-radicals from the Universities of California and Michigan. The old spirits now pivoting on 30 years of age - of the right-to-strike group are still agitating, still orating, still renouncing the national UMW leaders, and denouncing the government and the coal mine owners.

Familiar faces of Chicago's "Revolutionary Union" (the RU) are whirling around.

Scores of thousands of coalriggers have been striking for more than two months - just as they hit the bricks last summer and the summer previous. Some 18 million tons of coal have been lost in recent months. The UMW retirement and health funds are losing $1 million daily in royalties.

Word is that the pension trust may not be able to mail its checks. Possibly no cash to cover.

The coalriggers' prized health cards are worth half what they were a year ago because of the slash in benefits. Hospitals and clinics may close.

Such information will be useful to the average cook only if the recipe being used also is written in metric measures. If the USDA is interested in getting into metrics, and it should be since Congress passed the Metric Conversion Act of 1975, it needs to write its own recipes in that new measurement, too.

Yet the same news release that brought the announcement of the inquiries going out on metric meat labeling carried with it a whole sheet of USDA recipes for using milk—and all of them still referred to "cups" and "one can (6 oz.)" and "two 12-ounce servings."

LIMITED BRITISH
ROLE IN RHODESIA
From The Financial Times, London

From Africa, Britain may still seem a powerful country. The fact is that the UK is in no position financially or militarily to send troops to Rhodesia which would be required to lend credibility to a political guarantee, and Britain cannot therefore undertake responsibility for ensuring that both sides carry out whatever bargain had been agreed in Geneva. This is the more true in that there is no certainty that any agreement in Geneva would be followed by an end to the guerrilla campaign. If at the end of a successful negotiation at Geneva the whites and the blacks were to agree that they wanted an individual Briton to act as moderator during the interim period, then this is something which the UK could well consider. But in no circumstances should Britain accept government responsibility for the transition to independence.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Interior Aids Hunters

by Jack Anderson
and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON - The big game hunters who are slaughtering endangered animals may have found an ally at the Interior
Dept.

The hunters are taking careful aim at the list of endangered species, which protected such rapidly vanishing animals as the leopard, zebra, antelope, quail and Mexican duck. If the hunters water down the safeguards, they will be able to kill and import greater numbers of the imperiled animals. Should restrictions be lifted, for example, the sleek leopard may soon be seen nowhere except in the windows of chic fur salons.

Until recently, the United States has been leading the fight against wholesale slaughter of endangered animals. But that policy has now been jeopardized by the Interior Dept.'s top official in charge of protecting wildlife.

He is the pipe-smoking,
personable Robert Herbst, who has quietly caved in to the demands of the hunting lobby. He will permit a hunter to be one of two private U.S. representatives to an international conference which will decide whether many endangered species may survive.
That decision, fumed one environmentalist, "is like sending a member of the Ku Klux Klan to an international conference on human rights to provide

'balance' to the delegation."

Herbst insists, however, that the hunters should have a vote at the convention. "They represent a certain element of the conservation community that has a right to be heard," he told us. "I just saw it as a fair thing to do."

Herbst made up his mind
after huddling privately with a few officials of Safari Clubs International.
Even though the hunters fiercely oppose U.S. policy on endangered species,
Herbst permitted the Safari officials to choose one of their own to attend the conference. Growled one Interior official: "Everybody found out about it after the fact."

During Herbst's recent tenure as Interior's top environmental official, the Interior Dept. formally threatened to take him to court for allegedly authorizing the slaughter of endangered timber wolves.
Herbst maintained the regulations were confusing.

We have discovered that Herbst misled the Senate when he testified at his confirmation hearings that he tried to change the wolf's status from "endangered" to "threatened." We have obtained a letter in which Herbst requested that Minnesota wolves be removed from all federal protection.

The hunters, however,
were so impressed with Herbst's previous performance that they enthusiastically supported him at his Senate confirmation hearings.

Likely Choice: Rep.
Clement Zablocki, D-Wis.,
a onetime choir director and organizer who now chairs the House International Relations Committee, is not exactly shy about telling his own horn.

Recently, for example,
Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill asked a number of House chairmen for nominees to serve on the new committee on intelligence.
Five respected congressmen on the International Relations Committee vied for the opportunity. Zablocki carefully surveyed the available talent and decided on an even better choice - himself.

Zablocki told us he had asked for and received the speaker's permission before selecting himself. He has developed expertise in the intelligence field, he added.

Herbst was reportedly miffed at the plodding but amiable Zablocki for picking himself. A spokesman for O'Neill officially denied this.

This isn't the first time
the Milwaukee congressman has promoted his own candidate. Last February, Zablocki raised a ruckus when someone else was chosen as chairman of the House delegation to the North Atlantic Assembly.

Voyager speeds to Jupiter

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Voyager 2 spacecraft is speeding toward Jupiter, Saturn and beyond while scientists try to analyze its shaky start and the problems that threatened the mission.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here ordered the spacecraft, equipped with television cameras, to turn several of its instruments on and off late Sunday night to test them.

They were to analyze the results of those experiments today. But the scientists said the Voyager 2 appears to have overcome its earlier troubles and was sailing smoothly to the outer planets and eventually out of the solar system.

Most troubling of the Voyager 2's apparent problems was the possible failure of a boom containing cameras and scientific tests to project itself away from the craft's body. But engineers now believe the boom did extend and is within one degree of its proper position.

That diagnosis was made Saturday night when mission controllers ordered a sun sensor on the boom to turn toward the sun so it could absorb solar rays. That command was obeyed, said mission controller Jerry Stilwell, and data fed back to Earth began showing the absorption of solar heat.

The Voyager's problems, including an unstable gyroscope — used to keep the craft on course — and a malfunctioning computer, began about an hour after its launch from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Saturday morning.

Cape Canaveral spacecraft manager John Casani met with his engineers on Sunday to make sure the Voyager 2's twin, Voyager 1, doesn't have the same kind of problems when it is launched Sept. 1. Voyager 1 is scheduled to arrive at Jupiter before Voyager 2 because it is traveling a more direct route.

The two spacecraft are being sent on the voyage in a $500 million effort to study, among other things, plasmas — gases composed of charged particles — in the atmospheres of Jupiter and Saturn.

FBI appointment praised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vernon Jordan, executive director of the Urban League, has praised President Carter's appointment of Frank Johnson as FBI director and urged support of Carter's welfare reform proposals.

"It is one of the signals that we asked for and are prepared to urge the Congress to give support to," Jordan said Sunday of the welfare proposals.

He said that the appointment of Johnson, a federal judge from Alabama, to head the FBI was "a very encouraging sign" for blacks.

But Jordan, who appeared with NAACP leader Benjamin Hooks on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said Carter has been too slow in dealing with the unemployment problem.

"Inflation is a cruel enemy to the poor," Hooks said, "but not nearly as cruel as being without a job month after month, year after year."

5,600 now fighting fire

Reinforcements from five eastern states are now part of the 5,600 firefighters trying to control a blaze that has blackened more than 70 square miles of California's Klamath National Forest.

Firefighters from Florida, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and South Carolina, have been dispatched to the 12-day-old fire, according to U.S. Forest Service spokesman Ernest Weinberg.

He said the fire, covered by heavy smoke and burning in steep timberland, had burned more than 45,000 acres and was out of control Sunday.

Carter enjoys Camp David

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — Before Jimmy Carter took office, there was talk about saving money by closing Camp David, the presidential retreat about 60 miles north of Washington.

Then the new President had a chance to look around the hideaway, a kind of personal country club with a membership of one. The talk stopped.

Carter returned to the White House on Sunday after his first extended stay in Maryland's Catoctin mountains. It was his seventh trip to Camp David and every sign indicates he enjoys the retreat, with its rustic atmosphere, its tennis court and its swimming pool.

Camp David gives Carter privacy and relief from the highly organized schedule he follows at the White House. "There is no set routine," says Tim Kraft, the President's appointments secretary and one of a handful of aides who accompanied the Carters on their vacation last week.

Indonesian quake kills 72

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The death toll in the Indian Ocean earthquake and tidal waves in the Lesser Sunda islands of Indonesia has risen to 72. Social Affairs Minister M.S. Mintareja reported today.

Mintareja said there were 52 dead on the island of Sumbawa, 18 on Lombok and 2 on Bali. He said nothing about any missing persons, but the head of the Sumbawa government, Hassan Usman, reported more than 65 persons missing earlier.

Tidal waves as high as 16 feet crashed over villages on the coasts of Sumbawa and Lombok and demolished more than 150 homes. Mintareja said he believed hundreds of persons were injured.

Hijacker surrenders

DENVER (AP) — "He didn't seem to be very rational. He told us not to turn around, to look straight ahead," said pilot Dave Bender of a man who burst into the cockpit and said he had a bomb. The hijacker reportedly told the crew of the Western Airlines flight that he wanted to be set down in Salt Lake City — or in Mexico, Kansas City or Milwaukee. When the Boeing 707 landed safely in Salt Lake City, Jerry Richard Mills, 36, of Escondido, Calif., surrendered to FBI agents and police on the runway, authorities said. No one was hurt and no bomb was found.

Guerrillas slaughter 16

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Security forces are hunting a band of black nationalist guerrillas who attacked the black living quarters on a farm in eastern Rhodesia and slaughtered 16 men, women and children. Some of the victims were herded into a circle and shot, others bayoneted, and one was burned to death when the guerrillas set fire to the compound, officials reported. Another 15 to 20 persons were injured in the raid Saturday night.

Marcos to ease martial law

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos told a conference on human rights today he will ease martial law by granting amnesty for subversives, lifting a nationwide curfew and ending a ban on foreign travel. He also promised to hold local elections next year and to set an election date for all other government positions. There have been no elections since Marcos imposed martial law on Sept. 23, 1972.

Faulty fans recall 765,000 more Fords

DETROIT (AP) — Engine cooling fans in an estimated 765,000 Ford Motor Co. cars could break off and kill or injure a person working under the hood, the auto maker said in announcing a recall of the vehicles.

The recall, announced Tuesday, raises to 1.2 million, the number of cars Ford has recalled since June for the same problem, which has resulted in one death and at least 19 injuries, according to government reports.

The federal government has said it is investigating of 6.2 million Ford cars and light trucks built since the 1970 model year which might have the defect. A government official said Tuesday the new recall does not end the investigation.

The latest campaign involves 1976 and 1977-model standard-sized Fords and Mercurys and some 1977 Lincolns, all with V-8 engines.

Ford said the fan blades on the vehicles may crack and pieces of the blades may eventually fly loose from the fan assemblies.

Ford said dealers would replace the fans at no charge to owners beginning at the end of September, when initial supplies of replacement parts will be available.

In the meantime, Ford warned owners and mechanics against working under the hood of a car with the engine running until the fans have been replaced.

Affected 1976-models are:

Air-conditioned Fords and Mercurys with 351-cubic-inch and 400-c.i. engines; non-air conditioned Fords and Mercurys with police packages and, in the case of the 400-c.i. engine, with trailer-towing packages, and all non-air conditioned Fords and Mercurys with 460-c.i. engines except those equipped with police packages.

Affected 1977-models are:

Air conditioned Fords and Mercurys with 302-and 351-c.i. engines; non-air conditioned Fords and Mercurys with 351-c.i. engines and police packages; Lincolns with 400-c.i. engines, non-air conditioned Fords and Mercurys with 400-

Voyager speeds to Jupiter

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Voyager 2 spacecraft is speeding toward Jupiter, Saturn and beyond while scientists try to analyze its shaky start and the problems that threatened the mission.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here ordered the spacecraft, equipped with television cameras, to turn several of its instruments on and off late Sunday night to test them.

They were to analyze the results of those experiments today. But the scientists said the Voyager 2 appears to have overcome its earlier troubles and was sailing smoothly to the outer planets and eventually out of the solar system.

Most troubling of the Voyager 2's apparent problems was the possible failure of a boom containing cameras and scientific tests to project itself away from the craft's body. But engineers now believe the boom did extend and is within one degree of its proper position.

That diagnosis was made Saturday night when mission controllers ordered a sun sensor on the boom to turn toward the sun so it could absorb solar rays. That command was obeyed, said mission controller Jerry Stilwell, and data fed back to Earth began showing the absorption of solar heat.

The Voyager's problems, including an unstable gyroscope — used to keep the craft on course — and a malfunctioning computer, began about an hour after its launch from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Saturday morning.

Cape Canaveral spacecraft manager John Casani met with his engineers on Sunday to make sure the Voyager 2's twin, Voyager 1, doesn't have the same kind of problems when it is launched Sept. 1. Voyager 1 is scheduled to arrive at Jupiter before Voyager 2 because it is traveling a more direct route.

The two spacecraft are being sent on the voyage in a $500 million effort to study, among other things, plasmas — gases composed of charged particles — in the atmospheres of Jupiter and Saturn.

FBI appointment praised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vernon Jordan, executive director of the Urban League, has praised President Carter's appointment of Frank Johnson as FBI director and urged support of Carter's welfare reform proposals.

"It is one of the signals that we asked for and are prepared to urge the Congress to give support to," Jordan said Sunday of the welfare proposals.

He said that the appointment of Johnson, a federal judge from Alabama, to head the FBI was "a very encouraging sign" for blacks.

But Jordan, who appeared with NAACP leader Benjamin Hooks on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said Carter has been too slow in dealing with the unemployment problem.

"Inflation is a cruel enemy to the poor," Hooks said, "but not nearly as cruel as being without a job month after month, year after year."

5,600 now fighting fire

Reinforcements from five eastern states are now part of the 5,600 firefighters trying to control a blaze that has blackened more than 70 square miles of California's Klamath National Forest.

Firefighters from Florida, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and South Carolina, have been dispatched to the 12-day-old fire, according to U.S. Forest Service spokesman Ernest Weinberg.

He said the fire, covered by heavy smoke and burning in steep timberland, had burned more than 45,000 acres and was out of control Sunday.

Carter enjoys Camp David

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — Before Jimmy Carter took office, there was talk about saving money by closing Camp David, the presidential retreat about 60 miles north of Washington.

Then the new President had a chance to look around the hideaway, a kind of personal country club with a membership of one. The talk stopped.

Carter returned to the White House on Sunday after his first extended stay in Maryland's Catoctin mountains. It was his seventh trip to Camp David and every sign indicates he enjoys the retreat, with its rustic atmosphere, its tennis court and its swimming pool.

Camp David gives Carter privacy and relief from the highly organized schedule he follows at the White House. "There is no set routine," says Tim Kraft, the President's appointments secretary and one of a handful of aides who accompanied the Carters on their vacation last week.

Indonesian quake kills 72

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The death toll in the Indian Ocean earthquake and tidal waves in the Lesser Sunda islands of Indonesia has risen to 72, Social Affairs Minister M.S. Mintareja reported today.

Mintareja said there were 52 dead on the island of Sumbawa, 18 on Lombok and 2 on Bali. He said nothing about any missing persons, but the head of the Sumbawa government, Hassan Usman, reported more than 65 persons missing earlier.

Tidal waves as high as 16 feet crashed over villages on the coasts of Sumbawa and Lombok and demolished more than 150 homes. Mintareja said he believed hundreds of persons were injured.

Hijacker surrenders

DENVER (AP) — "He didn't seem to be very rational. He told us not to turn around, to look straight ahead," said pilot Dave Bender of a man who burst into the cockpit and said he had a bomb. The hijacker reportedly told the crew of the Western Airlines flight that he wanted to be set down in Salt Lake City — or in Mexico, Kansas City or Milwaukee. When the Boeing 707 landed safely in Salt Lake City, Jerry Richard Mills, 36, of Escondido, Calif., surrendered to FBI agents and police on the runway, authorities said. No one was hurt and no bomb was found.

Guerrillas slaughter 16

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Security forces are hunting a band of black nationalist guerrillas who attacked the black living quarters on a farm in eastern Rhodesia and slaughtered 16 men, women and children. Some of the victims were herded into a circle and shot, others bayoneted, and one was burned to death when the guerrillas set fire to the compound, officials reported. Another 15 to 20 persons were injured in the raid Saturday night.

Marcos to ease martial law

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos told a conference on human rights today he will ease martial law by granting amnesty for subversives, lifting a nationwide curfew and ending a ban on foreign travel. He also promised to hold local elections next year and to set an election date for all other government positions. There have been no elections since Marcos imposed martial law on Sept. 23, 1972.

First-place Royals sweep Boston

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

If the Boston Red Sox and Kansas City Royals wind up in the American League playoffs, the home field advantage might be the deciding factor.

"They don't like to play here," Royals outfielder Tom Poquette said Sunday after Kansas City beat the Red Sox 6-4 on Kansas City's artificial turf and swept the three-game series between the division leaders. The two teams split the season series 5-5, with each side holding a 4-1 advantage at home.

Meanwhile, Boston's AL East lead diminished to one-half game over New York when the surging Yankees nipped the Texas Rangers 2-1 for their eighth consecutive triumph and 13th in the last 14 games and climbed into second place when the Baltimore Orioles, who are 1½ games out, lost to the Minnesota Twins 9-5.

In the West, the Royals lead Chicago — the White Sox split a doubleheader with the Milwaukee Brewers, losing 7-1 and winning 6-3 — and Minnesota by one game and Texas by 1½.

In other games, the California Angels shaded the Toronto Blue Jays 3-2, the Cleveland Indians downed the Oakland A's 4-1 and the Detroit Tigers edged the Seattle Mariners 5-4.

The Royals, who have won 16 of their last 18 home games, broke a 3-3 tie by tagging Boston relief ace Bill Campbell for three runs in the eighth inning. Campbell had two victories and a pair of saves in five previous appearances against the Royals.

Campbell relieved starter

Don Aase with the score tied in the seventh and retired the side. However, Al Cowens opened the eighth with a single and one out later, Darrell Porter also singled and Amos Otis walked, loading the bases.

A walk to pinch hitter Joe Lahoud forced in the lead run and Poquette, who doubled in the fifth inning and scored the tying run on George Brett's triple, followed with a high bounce to first baseman Scott and beat Campbell to the bag as both Porter and Otis scored.

Yankees 2, Rangers 1
Graig Nettles knocked in both Yankees runs with a homer and a double and reliever Sparky Lyle earned his 20th save. Lyle was nicked for a run-scoring single by Juan Beniquez in the eighth inning and survived a leadoff walk in the ninth in preserving Ron Guidry's 10th victory.

Twins 9, Orioles 5
Lyman Bostock drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly, single and home run and Ron Schueler hurled 4 1-3 innings of one-hit relief as Minnesota ended Baltimore's three-game winning streak. Trailing 5-4, the Twins chased Rudy May with a four-run sixth.

Brewers 7-3, White Sox 1-6
Brian Downing drove in four runs with a two-run homer in the seventh inning and a two-run single in the eighth as the White Sox rallied to take the nightcap. The Brewers won the opener as Moose Haas fired a three-hitter, Ken McMullen's two-run homer sparked a six-run fourth inning and Jim Wolford also homered.

In the second game, Von Joshua's leadoff homer gave the Brewers a 1-0 lead in the first inning against winner Steve Renko, who struck out eight in seven innings in his American League debut.

Angels 3, Blue Jays 2
Jerry Remy's third single scored Terry Humphrey with the winning run in the seventh inning while Frank Tanana, 15-7, scattered seven hits and struck out eight in posting his 20th complete game of the season.

Indians 4, A's 1
Dennis Eckersley, who has pitched a no-hitter and one-hitter this season, hurled a three-hitter in handing the A's their 19th defeat in the last 21

games. Fred Kendall drove in Cleveland's tie-breaking run with a seventh-inning sacrifice fly off loser Rick Langford and the Indians added a pair of insurance runs in the ninth inning on an error, an RBI double by

Rico Carty and a single by Ron Pruitt.

Tigers 5, Mariners 4
A three-run homer by Ben Oglivie in the fourth inning and consecutive shots by Steve Kemp and Jason Thompson in the sixth powered Detroit to its third victory in a row over the Mariners. Oglivie's homer followed a walk to Kemp and a single by Thompson. Larry Milbourne cracked a two-run homer for Seattle.

First-place Royals sweep Boston

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

AP Sports Writer
If the Boston Red Sox and Kansas City Royals wind up in the American League playoffs, the home field advantage might be the deciding factor.

"They don't like to play here," Royals outfielder Tom Poquette said Sunday after Kansas City beat the Red Sox 6-4 on Kansas City's artificial turf and swept the three-game series between the division leaders. The two teams split the season series 5-5, with each side holding a 4-1 advantage at home.

Meanwhile, Boston's AL East lead diminished to one-half game over New York when the surging Yankees nipped the Texas Rangers 2-1 for their eighth consecutive triumph and 13th in the last 14 games and climbed into second place when the Baltimore Orioles, who are 1½ games out, lost to the Minnesota Twins 9-5.

In the West, the Royals lead Chicago — the White Sox split a doubleheader with the Milwaukee Brewers, losing 7-1 and winning 6-3 — and Minnesota by one game and Texas by 1½.

In other games, the California Angels shaded the Toronto Blue Jays 3-2, the Cleveland Indians downed the Oakland A's 4-1 and the Detroit Tigers edged the Seattle Mariners 5-4.

The Royals, who have won 16 of their last 18 home games, broke a 3-3 tie by tagging Boston relief ace Bill Campbell for three runs in the eighth inning. Campbell had two victories and a pair of saves in five previous appearances against the Royals.

Campbell relieved starter

Don Aase with the score tied in the seventh and retired the side. However, Al Cowens opened the eighth with a single and one out later, Darrell Porter also singled and Amos Otis walked, loading the bases.

A walk to pinch hitter Joe Labouche forced in the lead run and Poquette, who doubled in the fifth inning and scored the tying run on George Brett's triple, followed with a high bounce to first baseman Scott and beat Campbell to the bag as both Porter and Otis scored.

Yankees 2, Rangers 1
Graig Nettles knocked in both Yankees runs with a homer and a double and reliever Sparky Lyle earned his 20th save. Lyle was nicked for a run-scoring single by Juan Beniquez in the eighth inning and survived a leadoff walk in the ninth in preserving Ron Guidry's 10th victory.

Twins 9, Orioles 5
Lyman Bostock drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly, single and home run and Ron Schueler hurled 4 1-3 innings of one-hit relief as Minnesota ended Baltimore's three-game winning streak. Trailing 5-4, the Twins chased Rudy May with a four-run sixth.

Brewers 7-3, White Sox 1-6
Brian Downing drove in four runs with a two-run homer in the seventh inning and a two-run single in the eighth as the White Sox rallied to take the nightcap. The Brewers won the opener as Moose Haas fired a three-hitter, Ken McMullen's two-run homer sparked a six-run fourth inning and Jim Wohlford also homered.

In the second game, Von Joshua's leadoff homer gave the Brewers a 1-0 lead in the first inning against winner Steve Renko, who struck out eight in seven innings in his American League debut.

Angels 3, Blue Jays 2
Jerry Remy's third single scored Terry Humphrey with the winning run in the seventh inning while Frank Tanana, 15-7, scattered seven hits and struck out eight in posting his 20th complete game of the season.

Indians 4, A's 1
Dennis Eckersley, who has pitched a no-hitter and one-hitter this season, hurled a three-hitter in handing the A's their 19th defeat in the last 21

games. Fred Kendall drove in Cleveland's tie-breaking run with a seventh-inning sacrifice fly off loser Rick Langford and the Indians added a pair of insurance runs in the ninth inning on an error, an RBI double by

Rico Carty and a single by Ron Pruitt.

Tigers 5, Mariners 4
A three-run homer by Ben Oglivie in the fourth inning and consecutive shots by Steve Kemp and Jason Thompson in the sixth powered Detroit to its third victory in a row over the Mariners. Oglivie's homer followed a walk to Kemp and a single by Thompson. Larry Milbourne cracked a two-run homer for Seattle.

Kingman's slam crushes Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dave Kingman says he was only feeling for a first-inning pitch, but Tom Underwood would disagree.

The San Diego Padres strongman also injected muscles into his Sunday swing and flattened Underwood and the St. Louis Cardinals with his 19th home run.

Kingman's blow, a grand slam, keyed a 7-0 Padres victory and ended an unproductive period of two weeks mostly on the San Diego bench.

"I can't particularly hit well if I don't play. It's tough to get the feeling going, let alone the timing," suggested Kingman. "To have that situation and the way I've been swinging, I was just trying to hit the ball in the air."

Kingman, while batting sixth in the Padres' lineup, strolled to home plate after the Padres scored a run in the opening inning because of a subsequent error by Cards shortstop Garry Templeton and Dave Winfield's infield hit.

Two fast balls by Underwood, 7-9, first handcuffed the 6-foot-6 Kingman before a 1-2 delivery was fouled back.

Kingman then dug in for what he hoped would be another fast ball and Underwood obliged with a low delivery the San Diego slugger belted 400 feet into the bleachers in left-center.

"I was looking for a fast ball because he threw two right by me," said Kingman, accounting for his readiness. "He wasn't going to go with a curve."

"You can do that to Kingman but you've got to keep the ball up," noted St. Louis catcher Ted Simmons in defense of the pitch he selected. "Unfortunately he (Underwood) didn't do it. It was a mistake."

Kingman's wallop, his second grand slam of the year, backed Padres rookie Bob Ojeda, 6-8, who responded by stymying the Cards on eight hits en route to his first major league shut-out.

"It's very comfortable when you're five runs ahead," acknowledged Ojeda, a young left-hander. "I could just stay ahead of the hitters and make them hit my pitch."

Kingman, after driving in 11 runs during a three-game San Diego series previously this month at Chicago, afterward spent time recuperating from a knee injury he suffered in a scuffle with Cubs infielder Mick Kelleher.

"But I wasn't hurt for a week and a half," maintained Kingman, a 224 hitter who has totaled 66 RBI in his 57 games for the Padres and 57 for the New York Mets.

Tampa Bay finally wins one, but lose quarterback Boryla for year

By TOM CANAVAN

AP Sports Writer

John McKay had waited more than a year to experience the thrill of victory.

However, it took only one night to rediscover the agony of defeat.

It was a jubilant McKay who said, "This one counts for our pride," after his victory-starved Tampa Bay Buccaneers upset the Green Bay Packers 10-7, snapping a 19-game losing streak Saturday night in a National Football League pre-season game.

It was a more somber Tampa Bay coach who announced Sunday that No. 1 quarterback Mike Boryla had suffered a knee injury in the game and would be lost for the season.

"This is the most devastating single blow we've had," McKay said after learning that Boryla's torn ligaments in his right knee would have to be surgically repaired.

"It hurts us. The team seemed to identify with Mike while he was in there. We'll have to put him on the injured reserve list," he added.

Boryla, who started last season for Philadelphia, was signed by the Bucs in early June when the Eagles forgot to notify him that he would be kept during his contract-ending option year.

Derek Smethurst, who until last week was playing for the Tampa Bay Rowdies in the playoffs of the North American Soccer League, gave the Bucs a 3-0 lead with a 22-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Green Bay took a 7-3 lead in the third quarter on Randy Johnson's 28-yard scoring strike to Ollie Smith, but Tampa linebacker Richard Wood recovered a Green Bay fumble early in the fourth quarter, giving the Bucs the ball at the Packers 32. Seven plays later, Eddie Williams scored on a one-yard plunge, giving Tampa Bay its first victory since 1976.

Other Saturday night games saw Denver beat Atlanta 10-2, New Orleans trim Buffalo 20-17, Chicago down Houston 14-10, Miami beat Dallas 20-14, San Diego whip the New York Giants 29-17 and Pittsburgh top the New York Jets 26-13.

In Sunday's games, San Francisco upset Los Angeles 23-14 and Cincinnati edged Detroit 17-13. New England visits Philadelphia tonight.

Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw completed 13 of 16 passes for 125 yards and two touchdowns as the Steelers breezed past the Jets. Four of the completions and one of the TDs were to Lynn Swann.

Don Strock, trying to usurp Bob Griese as Miami's No. 1 quarterback, fired touchdown passes of 56 and 69 yards to running back Nat Moore as the Dolphins remained unbeaten in exhibition play.

James Harris threw two touchdown passes, a 45-yard bomb to Charlie Joiner and a 31-yard toss to Johnny Rodgers, and Don Goode scored on a 34-yard interception return as the Chargers won their second game in three preseason outings, against the Giants.

New Orleans' Bobby Scott threw a 40-yard pass to Larry Burton, setting up a one-yard scoring burst by Tony Galbreath that gave the Saints a 20-10 lead with three minutes left in their game against Buffalo. The Bills closed out the scoring when quarterback Ken Johnson hit running back Curtis Brown on a 53-yard scoring play.

Craig Penrose threw a 28-yard touchdown pass to Riley Odoms and the Denver defense held the punchless Atlanta Falcons to 145 total yards and seven first downs as the Broncos remained undefeated.

Chicago scored on two fourth-down plays, handing Houston its third loss in a row. Mike Phipps hit Johnny Musso with a two-yard scoring pass and Roland Harper scored from a yard out in the fourth quarter for the Bears.

Quarterback Jim Plunkett tallied on a five-yard run, putting San Francisco ahead, then heaved a 48-yard scoring strike to Kenny Harrison as the 49ers posted their first victory this season, against Los Angeles.

The Rams took a 14-0 lead on touchdown passes by Pat Haden and Vince Ferragamo, but their offense sputtered in the second half when Joe Namath, working mostly with second-stringers, completed only six of 15 passes and was sacked several times.

clubbed a three-run homer in the fourth inning to lead Scott City to victory and eliminate Lelso.

Kelso had nipped Benton 4-3 in an exciting contest earlier Saturday. Kelso, which had been a 3-0 victim over Oran last Tuesday, used a solo homer by Tom Reinagle in the fifth to provide the winning margin.

In Oran's Saturday night battle against Righter, ace hurler John Watkins fanned eleven New Hamburg batters while fashioning a three-hitter.

Oran has now outscored their opposition 21-1 in three ball games in the tournament so far. The most talented fastpitch unit in this part of the state is expected to make a good showing in the Jefferson City tournament.

Michigan, Irish & Sooners to dominate Midwest

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan, Notre Dame and Oklahoma: that's how they stack up alphabetically in the Midwest, but take them in any order desired and one could come up with the national collegiate football championship rankings this season.

Michigan, with only Ohio State to fight off, is favored to win another Big Ten football title; Oklahoma is the choice in the Big Eight, and Notre Dame could field its best team since winning the 1973 national crown.

The Mid-American Conference doesn't figure to produce a contender for the national title but will have a wide-open race within its confines. Ball State will have a tough time defending the surprising title it claimed last year.

Defense is the key for Notre Dame, which suffered a couple of unexpected losses in the offensive backfield. Al Hunter, who became the first Irish back to gain more than 1,000 yards in a season, ran afoul of university rules and was suspended. Another blow was the academic loss of Willard Browner, who also was expected to be in the starting backfield.

All 11 defensive starters are back including ends Ross Browner and Willie Fry and back Luther Bradley. Coach Dan Devine has picked Rusty Lisch as his quarterback. Veterans Joe Montana and Gary Foytsek are in the wings.

The Big Ten title showdown will be at Ann Arbor Nov. 19, but it looks like Michigan all the way over a tough Ohio State team.

Even without running back Rob Lytle and wingback Jim Smith, who accounted for half of Michigan's yardage last season, Coach Bo Schembechler calls his Wolverines the "most veteran offensive team I've had in some time."

The offense centers around quarterback Rick Leach, who, although only a junior, already has played in many college games as the immortal Tom Harmon did in his career. Harlan Huckleby and Russell Davis will do the running.

Ohio State tied Michigan for the Big Ten title last year and went on to defeat Big Eight champion Colorado 27-10 in the Orange Bowl and Coach Woody Hayes flatly states "We expect to have another good football team this year."

How good should be determined Sept. 24 when the Buckeyes take on the powerful Oklahoma Sooners. Ohio State should have an explosive offense with elusive Rod Gerald at quarterback. Jeff Logan gained 1,248 yards last season and is back again. Ron Springs has great breakaway potential.

Oklahoma has 18 starters returning and not only is favored to win the Big Eight but the Sooners could claim their third national championship in four years.

The Sooners wishbone will be directed by quarterback Thomas Lott, who will hand off to the likes of Elvis Peacock, Keny King and Billy Sims. Lott does not figure to throw much. He attempted 12 last year in the seven games he played and completed only two with three of them being intercepted.

Linebacker Daryl Hunt and defensive back Zac Henderson anchor the Oklahoma defense.

There'll be a scramble behind Oklahoma in the Big Eight. Colorado has an awesome offensive line and Coach Bill Mallory hopes leading junior college rusher Eddie Walker will do the job.

Oklahoma State has running back Terry Miller, a top Heisman candidate, returning after gaining 1,600 yards, but he's about all. Nebraska lost six top players including quarterback Vince Ferragamo.

Missouri, which defeated Southern Cal and Ohio State last season, could be a factor in the Big Eight race. Coach Al Onofrio has Pete Woods returning at quarterback to throw to Joe Stewart and Leo Lewis.

Iowa State's hopes were dashed along with quarterback Buddy Hardeman's academic difficulties. But the Cyclones have running back Dexter Green, who gained more than 1,000 yards last season.

Kansas has running backs Billy Campbell and Norris Banks returning. Junior college transfer Brian Bethke and Mark Vincendese will battle for the quarterback job vacated by Nolan Cromwell.

Kansas State has its offense returning intact from a 1-10 season. Wildcat hopes hinge on quarterback Wendell Henriksen.

There'll be a wide-open race in the Big Ten behind Michigan and Ohio State with Michigan State and Minnesota likely contenders for the No. 3 spot, which could carry with it a bowl bid.

Michigan State will throw the ball and score points with Eddie Smith at quarterback but the Spartans must improve their defenses, which couldn't stop anyone last year.

Minnesota Coach Cal Stoll is eager to get started with "the best team I've had since I've been here. We'll be good on defense and that's where it all starts."

Stoll must replace quarterback Tony Dunny. Wendell Avery appears to have the job although he lacks experience.

Iowa will have 16 starters returning and Bob Commings expects a good year. "If we don't lead the Big Ten in penalties and turnovers again, I've got a feeling this is going to be a wacky Big Ten season."

Indiana's Lee Corso is chuck-full of jokes because he has the entire offensive unit back from last year's Purdue triumph. Also included is Mike Harkrader, who gained more than 1,000 yards as a freshman.

His 12-under-par total of 272 was two strokes better than former Masters champion George Archer, who came out of the pack and took second with a final-round 67.

"I never really got that close," Archer said. "He (North) made a couple of key putts to save par on the 13th and 14th. That left him four in front with four to play and I didn't have much chance after that."

"He knew he had it won and got a little careless at the end. I really made a charge at him, but he never lost control."

"I'm just glad we finally ran out of holes," said North, who bogeyed two of his last three. "They say the first one is the hardest to win. I'm glad it finally came."

North started the mild, hazy final round with a three-stroke lead and wasn't really challenged. His closest pursuers took themselves out with a variety of problems, a double bogey-bogey start by Leonard Thompson, double bogey-bogey by Howard Twitty on the eighth and ninth holes, and a double bogey by Tom Weiskopf on the 11th.

Weiskopf, however, hung on for third at 72-276, four strokes back of the winner, with George Burns, 66, and Andy Bean, 69, next at 277.

Masters and British Open champion Tom Watson was another shot back after a closing 71. He beat Jack Nicklaus, who had a closing 66, by one stroke. Watson picked up $10,200 from the total purse of $300,000, lifting his season's money-winning total to $291,687. He is within sight of becoming only the third golfer to earn $300,000 or more in a single season. Nicklaus now has $273,342.

North more than doubled his season's earnings with the $80,000 first prize and now has won $112,687. Archer won $34,200 and, with $72,568, is assured of a spot in the top 60 money-winners and an exemption for next year.

Record fish

Dr. W. J. Long, Poplar Bluff, shows his world record bigmouth buffalo, caught a year ago in a Butler County private pond. The fish weighed 56 pounds and has been recognized as a world record by both Field and Stream magazine and the National Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame.

Approving record fish harder than catching it

POPLAR BLUFF — It was about as easy as passing a law that forbids small children from enjoying ice cream when they eat it, but Dr. Long's buffalo is a world record.

Dr. W. J. Long, Poplar Bluff physician, caught a bigmouth buffalo a year ago — August 19, 1976. It weighed 56 pounds and quite obviously broke the then-state record of 38 pounds on rod and reel and 40 pounds by any method.

But there was some dispute as to just who had participated in the catch and the two organizations which keep national records on fish decided they couldn't credit Dr. Long with a national record if anyone else handled the rod.

However, a radio interview just after the catch indicated that Dr. Long alone landed the big fish and the Conservation Department submitted copies of the tape to the national record-keepers.

The Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame recognized the fish last November, but Field and Stream magazine waited until mid-July of this year before notifying the Conservation Department that the fish is a national record — really world record, since there are no claimants from other countries.

Dr. Long caught the big fish on 10-pound test line from a private lake in Butler County.

Missouri now has three recognized world records. Anzel Goans and sons dragged a 117 pound blue catfish out of the Osage River on a trotline in 1964 that qualifies for the world "caught by any method" record.

Paul Dilley, Springfield, owns the green sunfish world record with a two pound, two ounce fish he caught in Stockton Lake in 1971.

Orioles' Robinson calling it quits

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Brooks Robinson, whose defensive exploits have earned him a reputation as one of the finest third basemen in baseball history, says his first World Series was his biggest thrill in a 23-year professional career.

"The 1966 series has to be the biggest thrill of my career," the Baltimore great said Sunday after announcing his retirement as a player. "We were in four, but the first was the best."

He also said winning the American League's Most Valuable Player award in 1964 and a pinch-hit, game-winning homer he hit in April of this season also ranked as special personal moments.

Robinson, who became known as "The Human Vacuum Cleaner" for his defensive excellence, was regarded the premier third baseman of his time. His defensive ability brought him 16 consecutive "Gold Glove" awards from 1960 through 1975.

The Orioles, who are embroiled in a furious battle with the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox for the American League East title, asked Robinson to step down because they wanted to activate catcher

Rick Dempsey.

"Our club will be a little stronger this way," said Robinson. "I wish I had 20 more years."

"I knew when I came back I'd get a lot of playing time if the young guys didn't play well," said Robinson, 40. "Just the opposite happened though. The young guys have performed extremely well."

"It's not really that

Consultants for learning disabled adolescents schedules workshops

Phyllis Korrell, an educational consultant for learning disabled adolescents with the Special School District in St. Louis County, will present two workshops in Dexter, August 22-23. Her workshops are being co-sponsored by the Dexter Community Teachers Association, Dexter Public Schools, and the Dexter Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

The first workshop will be for parents and others interested in helping the adolescent with social and learning problems. This will be held Monday, August 22, starting at 7:30 p.m.

in the Community Room of the Security Federal Savings and Loan Co., located at 310 North Walnut in Dexter. Ms. Korrell will discuss some of the social and learning problems the learning disabled adolescent often encounters as he enters junior and senior high school. This program is open to any one interested in attending.

The second workshop, which is for teachers and school administrators, is scheduled for Tuesday, August 23, from 9 to 11 a.m.

in the Dexter High School Auditorium. Area teachers and administrators are invited to attend.

Ms. Korrell was educated in Marion, Indiana, Washington University in St. Louis, and did her graduate study at Webster College in St. Louis. She serves as an adjunct faculty member at Webster College, teaching such courses as "Introduction to Learning Potential," "Methods of Teaching Children with Learning Disabilities," and "Behavioral Management."

Her previous teaching experience, all in the St. Louis area, has included both elementary and secondary levels. She is in much demand as a leader of workshops in the field of learning disabilities, having been a program speaker at two statewide conferences of the Missouri Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. At the present time, she is a member of the Board of Directors of the St. Louis Council for Children with Learning Disabilities.

Coffee prices coming down

Drop by drop, coffee prices have started coming down. Supermarkets say sales of the brew are gradually picking up again, although consumers still seem reluctant to buy.

An Associated Press spot survey showed the price of a pound of coffee is generally about $3.50, down from a high of $4 and more in some places in March and April. In a few cities, where prices topped $5 a pound, current levels are still around $4.

Edward Maron of Ralphs, an 82-outlet chain in the Los Angeles area, said the stores ran an ad recently advertising lower coffee prices - $3.49 a pound, 47 per cent higher than the $3.38 level of January, but 13 per cent below the mid-April price of $3.99.

It was the stor's first coffee promotion this year and Maron said sales increased slightly.

"There is still a supply and demand problem," he said. "I don't think it's as severe as it was six months ago, but it's still with us. We're now in a kind of holding pattern."

Store spokesmen in Atlanta said sales dropped about 20 to 25 per cent in the first half of the year. Recent coffee promotions helped slightly, but sales remain sluggish. "We feel that one reason customers are not buying right now is that they're using up what we call 'pantry stuff' in anticipation of lower prices to come," said Arthur Levitt, coffee buyer for Altman Brothers, operators of the area's Big Apple chain.

A spokesman for a large chain in the Kansas City area said he didn't think sales would ever return to normal. "It's still not cheap," he said, when asked about coffee. "As time goes on, I think they're going to lose coffee drinkers."

Corwyn Wnke of Falley's an independent retailer in Topeka, Kan., said a pound of coffee is selling for $3.79, down from a high of $4.49. He said customers seemed to buy only when coffee was on sale.

Retail prices generally have decreased by a smaller margin than wholesale ones, mainly because the supermarket prices rose more slowly as stores sold coffee at a loss to draw customers.

Dear Ann Landers

Reader says they're off bottom of the chart

Dear Ann Landers: In regard to the letter from the bedroom math wizard: All I can say is if my wife and I had sex 89 times from August 1, 1975 to December 31, 1976 (which he figured was $235 times a month), I'd be thrilled. You can say the couple is under the average for their age group. Well, we must be off the bottom of the chart -- and we're only 26 years old.

Being an accountant by profession, I was also interested in his method of record-keeping since at this point I'm willing to try anything. Does he keep a ledger sheet under his pillow? Does he require a signed voucher from his wife afterwards? Does he prepare an annual report? Who audits his books? I'd bring an adding machine to bed if it could keep my sex life from turning into the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Please sign me — Plenty Of Free Time In Spokane. Dear Spoke: I was swamped by letters from women, not men, who voiced the same complaint. And several live in Spokane. Don't ask. The answer is no. This isn't that kind of column.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I recently had our third child and sent announcements to relatives and friends out of town. We wanted to inform them of the new addition. It was not to get gifts.

I did this with the first two children and never thought a thing about it.

The problem: We have received several checks for the new baby and don't know what to do. We feel funny cashing them but if we don't they will notice it in their bank statements. Also, we think it would be ungracious to return the checks.

We appreciate their thoughtfulness and I plan to send thank-you notes to one and all. You've always said it is not proper to print "no gifts please" on an announcement or invitation. Please advise. — O. City Dilemma

Dear Dil: Maybe I'm some kind of nut but I'm opposed to sending announcements of any kind. To me they look like invoices. Unless you can invite friends to something, skip it.

The relatives knew you were expecting. Your close friends also knew -- even those who live out of town. (I assume you stay in touch by phone or mail.)

Anyone who receives checks after having sent announcements should not be surprised, nor should they return them. If you have a fourth baby, dear, and you want out-of-town friends to know, use Bell Telephone or drop a line and avoid future dilemmas.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my mother-in-law spent the night with us. The next morning she suggested to me that my husband and I soundproof our bedroom. She made no bones about the noises she heard in the guest room, which is right next to our bedroom.

I was so embarrassed, I felt like crawling under the floor. Do you believe it was in good taste to bring the subject up? If she felt she should mention it, don't you think she should have said something to my husband in-worked in the county since 1946, though her job title has changed several times. She has worked with homemakers and 4-H youth. She has helped plan new homes, remodel, rearrange storage areas, use new recipes, and taught her specialty --

The school is sponsored by the Progressive Farmer Magazine and The Daily Standard. In addition to the fun of the show, several valuable door prizes donated by participating local

Breath of Life chairman appointed from area

Radio-TV personality Jack Buck, Chairman of the Gateway Chapter, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, has appointed Jenny Cullick, the 1977 Breath of Life Chairman of Morley.

In accepting the chairmanship, Mrs. Cullick expressed great hopes for the annual fund raising drive which begins in Morley with a door-to-door march in September.

"Though volunteer efforts and increased community support, we may one day realize a future in which children no longer suffer from lung-damaging diseases, the most serious of which is cystic fibrosis," said the Breath of Life Campaign Chairman of Morley.

Mrs. Cullick, underscored her remarks by explaining that "the life expectancy of CF children has increased year by year, and we have every hope that scientists will find a control or cure for cystic fibrosis. A major purpose of the CF Foundation is to conquer this tragic inherited disease which occurs once in every 1,600 live births in the United States and is a leading genetic killer of children."

Through volunteer efforts across the country, the Breath of Life Campaign supports in addition to research a network of over 125 Cystic Fibrosis Centers specializing in diagnostic and treatment services for children with CF and other lung-damaging diseases, including asthma, bronchiectasis, childhood emphysema and chronic bronchitis and public health education programs to alert parents to the symptoms of lung-damaging diseases in their children, and to seek treatments which can improve their children's lives.

The case of the uncorked contractor

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.
After Clara hired Mike to renovate her home, she became a constant booing in his ear. She complained about everything from materials and workmanship to the way Mike parted his hair. Finally, blowing his cork, Mike parted from Clara. He walked off the job and left her stranded in an unfinished house in the dead of winter — with her complaints equally unfinished.

The result? With all the openings left in her home, when the icy winds blew outside, Clara turned blue inside. Turning to a judge for comfort, she sued Mike for the physical and emotional distress she was forced to endure.

"Not only did he not complete his contract," she cried, "but he left me to the perils of the elements. All winter long, I felt like an Eskimo living in an igloo. Even the water on my knee froze."

"If I hadn't quit the job," was Mike's answer, "I'd have ended up on a funny farm. By her constantly telling me and my men what to do, Clara was driving me crazy. I had no choice but to leave."

"If you were the judge, would you make the uncorked contractor pay Clara for her physical and emotional distress?"

This is how the judge ruled: No. The judge held that a person can collect for psychological harm that results from a breach of contract if the

1 and 2-person households now in majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smaller packages of hamburger may appear at the neighborhood grocery store and more one-bedroom apartments may be built if businessmen act on a new government report showing that over half of all American households have only one or two persons.

The Census Bureau said Tuesday that in March 1976, 51.2 per cent of the nation's households contained no more than two persons, compared with 40.9 per cent in 1960.

Average household size has decreased, the report says, because more people are getting divorced, fewer babies are being born and more young adults are postponing marriage. And more people — both young and old — are setting up house alone or with a friend.

The report says the data will have "a substantial impact on the level of demand for a vast array of products and services, including housing, education and health care."

Married couples last year made up 68 per cent of the nation's 73 million households, the figures show, down from 71 per cent in 1970.

The report also shows that the number of households of at least six persons is decreasing rapidly.

Last year only seven of every 100 households were that size or larger, the government says, compared with 11 of every 100 households in 1960.

The government defines a household as all the persons occupying a single housing unit.

The report also shows that despite the rising cost of housing, many young married couples are still purchasing homes. About half of such couples owned their own homes in 1970, compared with 57 per cent last year.

The case of the uncorked contractor

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.
After Clara hired Mike to renovate her home, she became a constant booing in his ear. She complained about everything from materials and workmanship to the way Mike parted his hair. Finally, blowing his cork, Mike parted from Clara. He walked off the job and left her stranded in an unfinished house in the dead of winter -- with her complaints equally unfinished.

The result? With all the openings left in her home, when the icy winds blew outside, Clara turned blue inside. Turning to a judge for comfort, she sued Mike for the physical and emotional distress she was forced to endure.

"Not only did he not complete his contract," she cried, "but he left me to the perils of the elements. All winter long, I felt like an Eskimo living in an igloo. Even the water on my knee froze."

"If I hadn't quit the job," was Mike's answer, "I'd have ended up on a funny farm. By her constantly telling me and my men what to do, Clara was driving me crazy. I had no choice but to leave."

If you were the judge, would you make the uncorked contractor pay Clara for her physical and emotional distress?

This is how the judge ruled: No. The judge held that a person can collect for psychological harm that results from a breach of contract if the

1 and 2-person households now in majority

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Smaller packages of hamburger may appear at the neighborhood grocery store and more one-bedroom apartments may be built if businessmen act on a new government report showing that over half of all American households have only one or two persons.

The Census Bureau said Tuesday that in March 1976, 51.2 per cent of the nation's households contained no more than two persons, compared with 40.9 per cent in 1960.

Average household size has decreased, the report says, because more people are getting divorced, fewer babies are being born and more young adults are postponing marriage. And more people -- both young and old -- are setting up house alone or with a friend.

The report says the data will have "a substantial impact on the level of demand for a vast array of products and services, including housing, education and health care."

Married couples last year made up 65 per cent of the nation's 73 million households, the figures show, down from 71 per cent in 1970.

The report also shows that the number of households of at least six persons is decreasing rapidly.

Last year only seven of every 100 households were that size or larger, the government says, compared with 11 of every 100 households in 1960.

The government defines a household as all the persons occupying a single housing unit.

The report also shows that despite the rising cost of housing, many young married couples are still purchasing homes. About half of such couples owned their own homes in 1970, compared with 57 per cent last year.

Commission against tris treated clothing

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission says his agency is prepared to file court suits nationwide as part of a new drive to halt the sale of children's sleepwear treated with Tris.

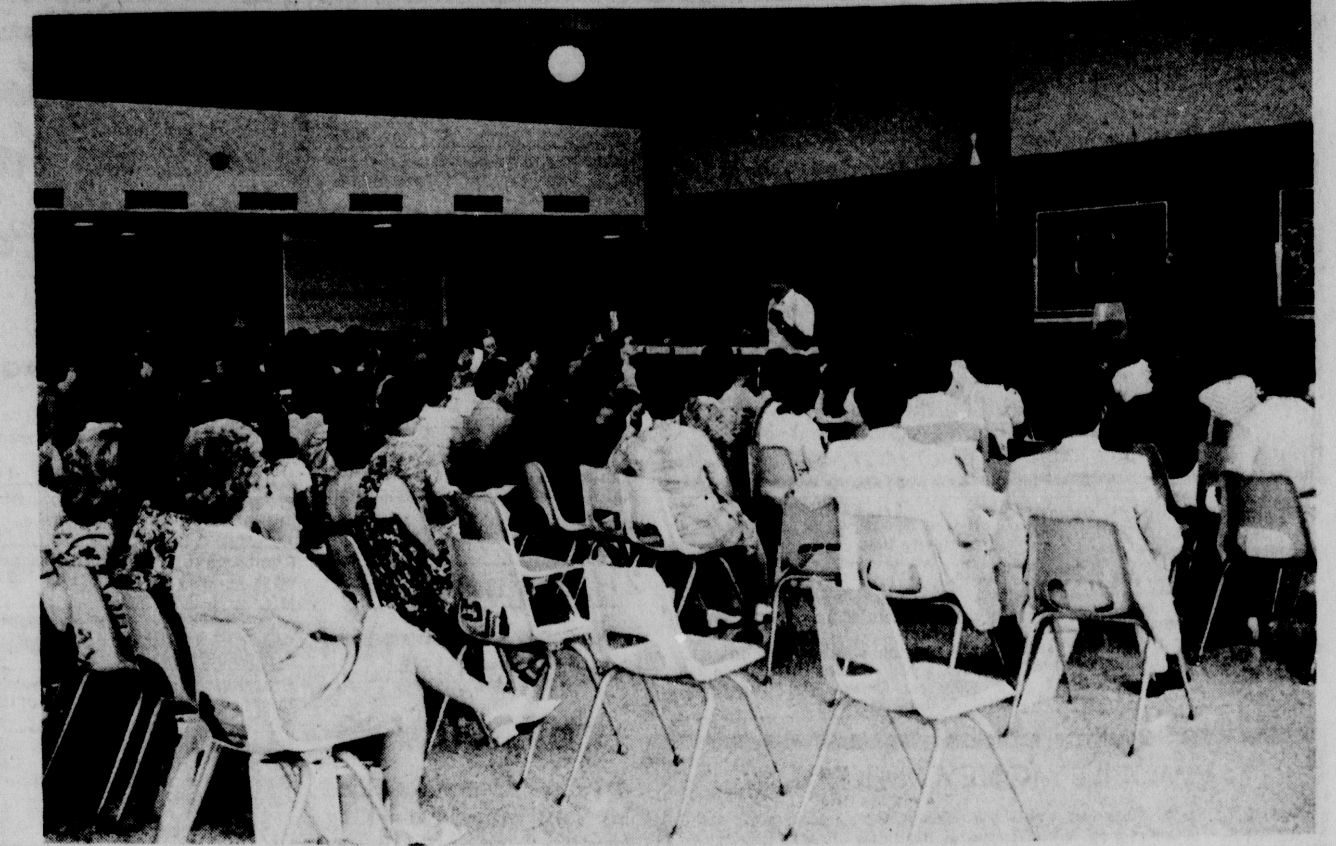

The commission decided on the strategy after it completed a new survey showing continuing sales of garments treated with the fire-retardant chemical linked to cancer in animal tests, says S. John Byington.

"Retailers ought to stop selling these garments or they'll probably find themselves in court with the Consumer Product Safety Commission," Byington said Sunday night in a telephone interview.

The case-by-case drive against Tris is an alternative to the commission's nationwide ban against the sale of garments treated with the chemical. The ban, imposed in April, was voided in June by U.S. District Judge Robert Chapman in Columbia, S.C.

Chapman ruled that the agency failed to observe proper procedures in imposing the ban.

William Hampton
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman William E. Hampton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hampton of 526 Clayton St., Sikeston, Mo., has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland AFB, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Hampton will now receive specialized training in the fire protection field.

He is a 1976 graduate of Sikeston High School.

Petroleum companies may pass bill despite controls

WASHINGTON (AP) -- No matter how much profit petroleum companies make, says Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, they always want more, and they don't really need it.

But Schlesinger says he thinks the companies will accept the energy bill passed by the House, even with its price controls and taxes, rather than fight it to a standstill in the Senate and be stuck indefinitely with existing regulations.

In his first on-record interview since taking office on Aug. 5, Schlesinger said the prices allowed by the bill offer petroleum companies adequate incentives to produce more oil and gas, and higher prices would risk generating excess profits for company stockholders.

"Greed, of course, is an unflattering term," Schlesinger said in answer to a question about the companies' intentions.

"But if one employs it, one must recognize that greed is the virtue that drives the free enterprise system, the desire to acquire substantial profits."

As the nation's first secretary of energy, Schlesinger also said he will take a close look at the jacking up of world uranium prices by an international cartel, and the possible involvement of U.S. energy companies.

On another subject, he said the Carter administration may favor an overland pipeline through Canada for Alaskan natural gas if it would be cheaper for U.S. consumers than a pipeline through Alaska that would require costly tanker shipments to the West Coast.

U.S. and Canadian representatives are discussing the pipeline question.

Schlesinger said he may enter negotiations with Canada in time to permit a policy recommendation by President Carter soon after Congress reconvenes next Sept. 7.

In the interview, conducted for an hour and a half last Friday in his White House office, Schlesinger also:

ministration consideration of a proposal to allow petroleum companies some higher profits to be "plowed back" into further energy development.

—Said the Carter administration will not try to keep oil and gas companies from moving into coal, uranium and other energy resources, at least for the present.

—Said Carter's effort to discourage the spread of nuclear fuel technology that could be used for nuclear weapons has had "partial success," achieving international agreement to work on the problem.

In discussing petroleum industry hopes for the energy bill pending in the Senate, Schlesinger said:

"Whatever we had proposed, I think one might anticipate that industry would have asked for more."

"Even if we had gone immediately to world oil prices for all oil, there probably would have been a desire for subsidy of some sort or another."

Hospital in St. Louis, which had been approved by the House, but then was cut by the Senate's Appropriations Committee.

In addition, the senators put in another $2.5 million for the State Hospital at St. Joseph and $2 million more for state parks, making a total of $4 million for state parks in the bill.

Also in the list of building projects contained in the bill are:

—$1.4 million for final planning and land acquisition for the proposed Harry S. Truman office building in Jefferson City.

—$7.6 million for the state schools for the handicapped.

—$7.4 million for improvements at the Marshall and Nevada state schools and hospitals.

—$3.4 million for state office building complexes in St. Louis and Springfield.

All three prisoners then went to the front of the building, pushed a button on the electric lock and disappeared.

None of the three remained free for long. Brogden was arrested about 10 minutes later by the Caruthersville Police Department on West Eight St.

Jackson was captured about 9:45 p.m. Friday by two city auxiliary police officers as he was walking down a street in Caruthersville.

After his escape, Oatsvall went to his father's house.

Oatsvall was turned in by his father at 6:15 a.m. today at the jail. Oatsvall came in without a fight, the sheriff's department spokesman said.

Brogden is being held on an armed robbery and attempted murder charge and Jackson is being held on a charge of murder.

Oatsvall is charged with armed robbery and attempted murder after allegedly shooting a Caruthersville grocer on Aug. 15.

Robert Wyatt, 57, was shot in the jaw as he opened Crow's Supermarket in Caruthersville, apparently surprising a man inside.

Oatsvall, a former store employee, was captured 14 hours later after a manhunt by 100 Bootheel police officers.

Minor in crafts offered at SeMo

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A minor in crafts for students who are not art majors will be available for students for the first time this fall at Southeast Missouri State University.

The new minor was approved by the university's Board of Regents at its July meeting after the proposal was presented on behalf of the Department of Art by Dr. William Petrek, vice president for academic services.

A report prepared for board members by Dr. Petrek said the department believes that "A significant number of non-art majors are available who wish to work primarily as craftsmen in three-dimensional areas. These people would benefit from the opportunity to develop a proficiency in the crafts area."

It was further noted that students interested in the recreation field would find the minor of help.

No new courses are required for the offering of the minor. Instead, 15 hours of courses already in the Southeast Missouri State curriculum are required for the minor.

Most of the courses are offered by the Department of Art, but three courses taught by the Department of Industrial and Technical Education may also be counted on the minor. These three courses are Sheet Metal and Art Metal, Industrial Plastics, and Industrial Crafts.

Art department courses which may be counted on the minor are design I, crafts, sculpture, ceramics I, basic jewelry, weaving, sculpture II, enameling, weaving II, ceramics III, and jewelry.

Design I and crafts are the only required courses.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

By RAYMOND CREWS

How often do you express a doubt? How often do you have doubts about your abilities or doubts about other people? It is healthy and wise to have doubts at times about certain things, but when doubts become chronic and cloud simple reasoning, then doubting has deteriorated to a sickness of skepticism.

We see men of poise and serenity; we see them with all the trappings of faith and dignity and we doubt whether these men ever have a doubt about anything. They seem so sure of themselves. But they too have doubts at times.

To doubt is only human. This was true from the days of the Psalmists to and through the days of Thomas and is true today. When we find ourselves gripped with uncertainty, we are bound to have doubts. But promiscuous doubting should not be.

Doubts torment us only because we have too little faith. This is true whether it applies to people, science, religion or anything else. Obviously then, the best way to reduce doubts is to increase faith. Sounds simple? It is...

Commission against tris treated clothing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission says his agency is prepared to file court suits nationwide as part of a new drive to halt the sale of children's sleepwear treated with Tris.

The commission decided on the strategy after it completed a new survey showing continuing sales of garments treated with the fire-retardant chemical linked to cancer in animal tests, says S. John Byington.

"Retailers ought to stop selling these garments or they'll probably find themselves in court with the Consumer Product Safety Commission," Byington said Sunday night in a telephone interview.

The case-by-case drive against Tris is an alternative to the commission's nationwide ban against the sale of garments treated with the chemical. The ban, imposed in April, was voided in June by U.S. District Judge Robert Chapman in Columbia, S.C.

Chapman ruled that the agency failed to observe proper procedures in imposing the ban.

Rather than wait for a U.S. appellate court to rule on a request to reinstate the ban, consumer safety commissioners decided to file individual suits in selected cases where they found Tris-treated garments for sale, Byington said.

The first suit, filed last Friday, resulted in a temporary order from a federal judge in New York ordering R.H. Macy & Co. department stores to stop selling the clothing. A hearing on the suit is scheduled for Sept. 22.

"We're hopeful that with the Macy's case and with two or three more cases this week, most retailers will understand we are now back in the market attempting to remove those garments," Byington said.

"Unless they want to litigate the right to sell Tris-treated garments, most would just take them off the shelves. I wouldn't want to argue the right to sell Tris-treated garments. It's bad public policy and bad customer relations."

The commission, concerned about earlier surveys that showed the sleepwear still on sale, had its personnel buy children's pajamas across the country for several days earlier this month. The clothing was later tested in laboratories.

Petroleum companies may pass bill despite controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter how much profit petroleum companies make, says Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, they always want more, and they don't really need it.

But Schlesinger says he thinks the companies will accept the energy bill passed by the House, even with its price controls and taxes, rather than fight it to a standstill in the Senate and be stuck indefinitely with existing regulations.

In his first on-the-record interview since taking office on Aug. 5, Schlesinger said the prices allowed by the bill offer petroleum companies adequate incentives to produce more oil and gas, and higher prices would risk generating excess profits for company stockholders.

"Greed, of course, is an unflattering term," Schlesinger said in answer to a question about the companies' intentions.

"But if one employs it, one must recognize that greed is the virtue that drives the free enterprise system, the desire to acquire substantial profits."

As the nation's first secretary of energy, Schlesinger also said he will take a close look at the jacking up of world uranium prices by an international cartel, and the possible involvement of U.S. energy companies.

On another subject, he said the Carter administration may favor an overland pipeline through Canada for Alaskan natural gas if it would be cheaper for U.S. consumers than a pipeline through Alaska that would require costly tanker shipments to the West Coast. U.S. and Canadian representatives are discussing the pipeline question.

Schlesinger said he may enter negotiations with Canada in time to permit a policy recommendation by President Carter soon after Congress reconvenes next Sept. 7.

In the interview, conducted for an hour and a half last Friday in his White House office, Schlesinger also:

ministration consideration of a proposal to allow petroleum companies some higher profits to be "plowed back" into further energy development.

—Said the Carter administration will not try to keep oil and gas companies from moving into coal, uranium and other energy resources, at least for the present.

—Said Carter's effort to discourage the spread of nuclear fuel technology that could be used for nuclear weapons has had "partial success," achieving international agreement to work on the problem.

In discussing petroleum industry hopes for the energy bill pending in the Senate, Schlesinger said:

"Whatever we had proposed, I think one might anticipate that industry would have asked for more."
